DEDICATION

By Wooda N. Carr

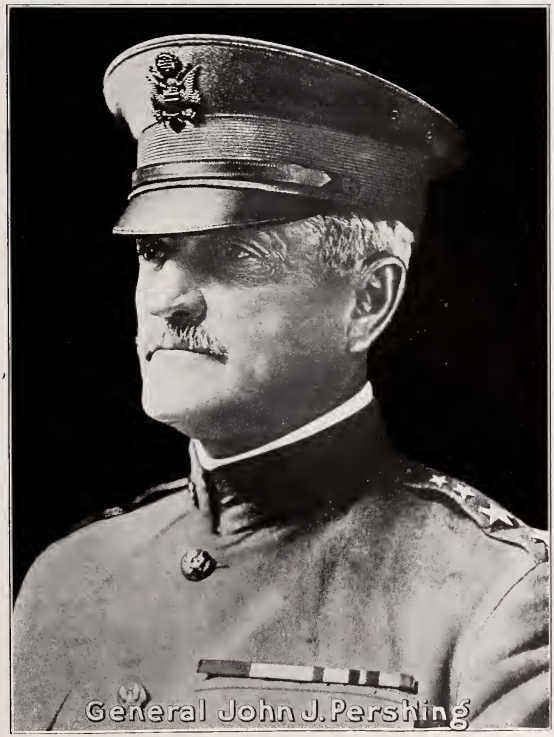
THIS work is to commemorate Fayette County's part in the winning of the World's War. It is dedicated to those who fought in the trenches abroad and at home in the cause of liberty.

Near the southern border of Fayette County is Fort Necessity, "the Fountain Head of American Liberty," where the guns of Washington heralded the dawn of a new nation—a nation to be dedicated to the proposition that "all men are created equal."

Inspired by this heroic past our boys went forth to preserve what our fathers won. They made possible a Fort Necessity to the enslaved peoples of the world.

To their courage and valor and to the patriotism and devotion of their loved ones at home this work is dedicated.

President Woodrow Wilson



General John J. Pershing

The mobilized forces of the United States were	4,272,521

The mobilized forces of the Central Powers were	19,500,000
The mobilized force of the world was	59,176,864

The Allies paid a death toll of	4,810,000
The Central Powers paid a death toll of	2,750,000

The cost in money to the Central Powers was	65,250,000,000

The United States entered the war on April 6, 1917. At the time the United States entered the war, a statistician said:

"There is required of the world every month an amount of money double that expended during the entire Russo-Japanese War, which lasted eighteen months. It means that the Boer War is being concentrated into every eight days of this war. It means that the Franco-Prussian War is being fought over and over again, its entire cost being compressed each time into a space of three weeks. It means that our Civil War—hitherto the greatest conflict in world history—is being duplicated with such intensity that a counterpart of the four-year struggle between the North and South is reproduced every fifty days."

The sum of money expended since the middle of 1914 has been more than double the combined money expenditure for all other wars that occurred since the beginning of history. The combined direct cost of the world's six greatest military struggles in the 125 years preceding this war was $21,000,000,000.

One of these raged through a period of twenty-one years. Another lasted four years. The twenty greatest wars in the century and a quarter preceding 1914 cost, directly, $25,000,000,000. That sum measures the cost of five months' fighting at the present rate of expenditure. The following table compares the cost of the greater wars:

Napoleonic Wars, 1793-1815	$ 6,250,000,000
Crimean War, 1853-1856	1,700,000,000
American Civil War, 1861-1865	8,000,000,000
Franco-Prussian War, 1870-1871	3,500,000,000
South African War, 1900-1902	1,250,000,000
Russo-Japanese War, 1904-1905	2,500,000,000
The World War, 1914-1918	200,000,000,000

They were like this:

BY THE KING:

"Trustie and well beloved we greete you well. Although there be nothing more against our minde than to be drawne into any course that may breed in our subjects the least doubt of our unwillingness to throw any burthen upon them, having already published both by our speeches and writings, our great desire to avoid it in the whole course of our Government: Yet such is our estate at this time in regarde of great urgent occasions growing daily upon us, (in no sort to be eschewed) as we shall be forced presently to disburse greater summes of money than it is possible for us to provide by any ordinary means, or to want without great prejudice, in which consideration we think it needless to use any more arguments from such a King to such subjects: But that as our necessitie is the only cause of our request, so your love and duty must be the chiefe motive of your ready performance of the same. Therefore that which we require is that within twelve days after the receipt hereof, you will cause the summe of five hundred pounds to be delivered to Henry Warwick whom we have appointed to be our collector in our county of Manchester. For assurance we have directed these our letters of Privie Seale unto you, which, with the hand of our sayd collector testifying the receipt of the same summe, shall bind us for the repayment thereof upon delivery of this our Privie Seale unto our sayd receipt."

Small choice about producing the sum required! And there is ere neither whisper nor hint of any interest payment.

Other sovereigns have devised other schemes, as when in mediel days rulers used often to solve the problem by debasing the oinage. Coins were sometimes made of less of the precious metal nd more alloy, and issued with all the appearance of having the ame value as before. By this process the King could make a given mount of gold or silver go much further until the fraud was disovered, when prices would adjust themselves to the less valuable urrency.

We do our public financing differently today. A rate of interest s now universal, although promise of repayment, while usual, is ot always made. The holder of British Government Consols has no ight to repayment, only the right to a perpetual annuity which riginally was 3 per cent and is now 2½ per cent. A large part of the rench Rentes are also what is called a perpetual debt with no obigation on the part of the government to repay. But as these securiies are a promise to pay interest perpetually, the holders can always ell them at a price on the Stock Exchange.

The Victory Liberty Loan at 4¾ per cent bears the highest rate f interest of any outstanding obligation of the United States Govrnment, and the highest rate at which any of our loans have been ssued except during the Civil War. Today the Liberty Loans are he world's premier security. They will probably have a greater ppreciation in market value within the next two years than any ther comparable security. Those who are wise will part with any nvestment they have rather than sell these bonds.

The organized campaigns that were conducted here between une, 1917, and May, 1919, furnish one of the most interesting and ignificant chapters in the history of Fayette County. The first offering of Liberty Bonds came quickly upon the declaration of war. A banker's committee was hurriedly organized to devise ways and neans of raising the $2,000,000 allotted to this county. Of this committee, Mr. M. H. Bowman, President of the National Bank of Fayette County, was chosen chairman. Mr. Earl S. Areford, a public-spirited young business man, was induced to accept the position of secretary. Headquarters were at once opened, posters distributed, and public appeals made through the press for subscriptions to the loan. This loan, however was not widely distributed, the banks absorbing most of it. There were only 2,497 individual subscribers in the entire county. Very few of the people understood the nature of a bond—that it was a first mortgage on the United States and that it would be repaid with interest.

Public response to the second Liberty Loan, offered in September, 1917, was better, individual subscribers increasing to 5,829, although Liberty Bonds were still thought to be a banker's investment and the necessity of sacrifice and saving had not yet become firmly implanted in the minds of the people. Bankers themselves were just beginning to realize that the war would be a very costly undertaking. By the fall of 1917, it became evident that the war would be protracted, that the issue was by no means decided, and that victory would depend upon the most intelligent and conscientious conservation and development of our resources of men, materials, and money. The country was convinced that the defeat of the Prussians would require millions of men and tens of billions of dollars; that these millions of men could only be provided by a selective service of human resources, and these tens of billions of dollars could only be provided by the thrift, sacrifice, and savings of every family. A bond in every home was the accomplishment to which all efforts were bent. Accordingly in preparation for the third Liberty Loan, the government directed a reforming of the War Loan Organizations throughout the country, their extension to include many other types of business besides banking, a multiplication of their size, and a development along prescribed lines of efficiency. In Fayette County an organization of 4,000 members was built up, embracing representation of every profession, business, trade, and social group. A spirited campaign followed, resulting in the sale of bonds to 30,000 individuals, more than five times the number of the second campaign, thereby relieving entirely the banks of the county and freeing their resources for the county's increasing commercial activity.

Up to this time, the largest sum which we had been asked to provide in any campaign was $3,000,000. Throughout the third campaign the great German drive was at its height and German arms were everywhere victorious. American soldiers were being sent to France by the hundreds of thousands monthly. Government expenditures were growing by leaps and bounds; and we were warned that the fourth Liberty Loan, which would be offered in September, would be for twice any previous loan. Immediately, therefore, upon the conclusion of the third campaign, we began preparations for the largest flotation of bonds ever undertaken by any government in the history of the world. Committees were reorganized and every worker took a solemn oath of service before the judges of our county courts.

In every city, borough, and township of the county, committees were appointed consisting of chairmen, captains, and solicitors. Prospect cards, containing the names of every possible purchaser of bonds in the county, were prepared with the utmost care and distributed to the local committees. Each solicitor was given certain prospects to see and report upon, so that no one was overlooked. Thus the resources of the county were fully drawn upon the result repaid these months of preparation; for the number of subscribers grew to 55,000 and the bonds distributed to the amount of $11,000,000—a most remarkable achievement and one which almost no one believed possible.

Then came the break of the German armies, the virtual surrender and the armistice of November 11. The war had been won but it had not been fully paid for, for billions of short-term treasury certificates of indebtedness were outstanding and the expenses of the military establishment would continue until demobilization. In fact, so thorough had been the preparation, so great were the quantities of military supplies in process of manufacture, so enormous was the cost of maintaining 4,000,000 men in arms, 2,000,000 of them three thousand miles from home, that the monthly disbursements of the treasury continued to increase, and it was evident that a fifth loan would have to be sold to the people. But there had come a pronounced relaxation from the strain of war, the need for further sacrifices was difficult to see, the grave doubts were felt by everyone of the sources of the Victory Liberty Loan. Nevertheless the same splendid organization for the fourth Loan undertook to finish the job. It would have been pleasant for them to surrender their wills to the ease of life and to the opportunities of private advantage. But with the same spirit they carried on, exceeding what was asked by them by $1,000,000, selling over $7,000,000 of the Victory Loan to 25,000 people. A tabulation of the results of the five campaigns is appended, together with the personnel of the Liberty Loan Committee of Fayette County, and the local committees for Uniontown and vicinity.

In the work of the Liberty Loan Committee many thousands of the citizens of Fayette County have had an honorable share. They have helped to write a splendid and historical record for the county of General Fayette. Comradeship in so great a cause can perhaps never come to them again, but pride in bearing so worthily the obligation of sacrifice and service will be brighter still ten and twenty years from now when they look back upon the days when all the institutions of freedom in the world were in such imminent and deadly peril. They have closed these labors with new hopes for the future of their country and for the security and happiness of their children.

And we have $30,000,000 of Liberty Bonds, new wealth laid by against troubled days that come to every generation, wealth that we should not have saved in easier days. And in addition, more fortunate than the noblemen of James 1, we shall have in interest each year almost $1,500,000, booty of the provident and the patriotic.

W. Russell Carr,
Vice-chairman, Liberty Loan Committee of Fayette County.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL VIRGINIUS E. CLARK

Chief Aeronautical Engineer, U. S. A.

IN Lieutenant-Colonel Virginius E. Clark Uniontown gave to the fighting forces of the United States during the World War one of its most brilliant and originative officers. The airplane program of the government as laid down in 1917 and as followed that year and the next was admittedly the greatest single constructive factor in the Allied offensive plan. More than any other individual, Colonel Clark was responsible for that program.

Failures, mistakes, vacillations, there were many. But they were not of Colonel Clark's making. Somewhere in Congressional reports it is stated that had Colonel Clark's original recommendations been followed with the intensity he suggested our aviation accomplishments might have matched our intentions and the winning of the war effected even sooner than it was and with less loss of life. Uniontown and Fayette County are justly proud of their distinguished son.

Lieut.-Col. Virginius E. Clark

Colonel Clark is the son of Harry S. Clark of Uniontown and was born February 27, 1886. While in high school he was appointed to the Naval Academy at Annapolis from which he graduated with engineering honors in 1907 just in time to take the famous voyage around the world as an ensign on board the battleship Minnesota. In 1908, just as he was ordered to the Philippines, he secured his transfer to the army, with the rank of second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery. This is the first modern instance of such a transfer.

Aviation now began to attract the serious consideration of our military staff and Lieutenant Clark secured a second transfer into this branch of the service. He soon qualified as a pilot and is today one of the select circle of senior military aviators. He also holds an International pilot's license, another rare distinction. The local officer had now devoted himself so assiduously to the study of aeronautics as to commend himself to the army general staff and since June, 1915, he has been the chief aeronautical engineer of the army.

Early in the summer of 1917 Colonel Clark was selected as the airplane engineer on a commission sent abroad to study last-minute progress in actual aviation combat, observation, and bombing development. He visited England, France, and Italy, flying by plane from France to Italy over the snow-capped summits of the Alps. As the result of his theoretical and practical investigations Colonel Clark filed by cable an exhaustive report on the aviation problems, with full and specific recommendations. These are the recommendations referred to on the floor of Congress as the basis of the United States aviation program as it should have been carried out. To illustrate briefly the soundness of Colonel Clark's deductions and his recommendations made in July, 1917, the following is quoted from his testimony before the Hughes Aviation Investigation Commission as reported in the Wall Street Journal of September 16, 1918:

"I submitted a report by cable, which I confirmed later immediately upon my arrival back in the United States in September of last year. For day bombing I recommended the DH-9 (not the DH-4), to take the Liberty 12-cylinder, direct-drive engine, redesigned accordingly. For observation work, control of artillery fire, and photography over tactical areas, etc., I recommended the Bristol fighter, redesigned to take the Liberty motor. For single-seater pursuit I recommended the Martinsyde to take the Liberty eight-cylinder engine. For single-seater combat I recommended two types, both the Spad. One with the 150-horse power Gnome engine and the other with the 180-horse power Hispano-Suiza engine. For night bombing I recommended the Caproni triplane."

These planes, even at the date of this writing—July, 1919, stand supreme in their respective uses.

Colonel Clark designed Langley Field, Virginia, and supervised its construction and equipment. He was afterwards stationed at the Dayton-Wright Field in Ohio but removed from there to Washington to give expert advice regarding basic aviation policy. His recommendations were ignored and the fact that not till the war was won was America coming into her flying strength has been reiterated by practical men "in the know" as directly due to the failure to follow Colonel Clark's original reports. Later Colonel Clark was stationed in command of McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio.

This sketch of Colonel Clark's career is written con amore by a civilian and a friend. But it reflects in intimate and untechnical style the well-grounded belief of those competent to judge that in the person of Virginius E. Clark of Uniontown the United States army possesses one of the world's foremost aeronautical engineers. His commission as major general as a belated yet thoroughly merited recognition of his services would be a happy and commendable mark of deserved appreciation.

MISS ELSIE GOLDSTEIN

ON July 1 of 1914, my sister and I set sail on a German vessel, The Bremen, from Hoboken, New Jersey. Our voyage over was unusually pleasant, the weather was ideal and the waters were tranquil during the trip of ten days. On the first day out at sea we sighted the Vaterland on its maiden journey, which since then has been dubbed by Uncle Sam, The Leviathan. July 14, we arrived at Bremen, one of Germany's largest commercial ports, and were duly impressed, upon landing, with the calm, unconcerned yet industrious manner in which the population in general conducted itself. The further our journey led us towards the interior the more impressive did the mechanical and systematized industrial thrift of the Germans become. Any American tourist might have been overwhelmed with the proficient exactness of the kaiserland.

But within a few weeks this apparent calm of Germany was unbelievably altered. War had been declared.

My sister and I were in Nürnberg, the quaintest of all German cities. It is known by everyone that Germany and kaiserism are synonymous with militarism. A military guard is maintained at every German depot and in front of all public buildings. Most of the German cities are enclosed by almost impregnable stone walls. These walls are "manned" by colossal towers where also a guard is maintained. War or no war, any movements antagonistic to Prussianism can be accurately observed from such positions. And so we continued inland. It was evident, in every way, that war had been anticipated or rather forced on the people by the German war-lord and his machinery, who controlled, clandestinely, the minutest affairs of a people, educated to despotism, and too subjugated to be aggressive enough to assert the right of personal freedom, which we Americans feel is the divine heritage of mankind.

Simultaneously with the heralding of the ultimatums, the mobilization of troops began. Overnight it seemed that like a huge snake, curled, poised, ready to spring at any moment at an unsuspecting prey, Germany, the cold, austere nation had disclosed its destructive fangs. The German world seemed in a turmoil. The food rations were immediately lessened and substitutes for wheat flour were ordered by the government. The menage of the citizenship was terribly reduced. We, in America, who at one time complained because of the lesser quality of edibles and food stuffs cannot know what privations every belligerent country of Europe endured. Even the bread which formed the main diet of the middle and peasant classes was of the blackest and most unappetizing variety and limited in amount at that. Every housewife was compelled under threat of imprisonment to report weekly at the magistrate's office the supply of bread remaining, so that her next week's baking could be regulated accordingly.

These were among our first observations of war, but after leaving Germany we toured Austria-Hungary and Switzerland. In the dual monarchy the state of affairs was not unlike that of Germany but in Switzerland every thing was normal but for the multitude of tourists crowding the neutral country on their way out of the mobilizing territory.

After two months of touring we returned to Germany and with much difficulty reached Budapest, the Hungarian capital. Our journey to that city was one of unpleasantness. It seemed that everywhere we were suspected of being French, English—in fact anything at all that might be opposed to the central powers. Most of the time we traveled under surveillance or with a military escort of two guards shouldering arms—at that time we were too confused and uneasy to have noticed other than the two rifles.

For one year we remained in Hungary. Miskolc was our destination. It was perhaps the most important and largest ammunition supply depot nearest the Russian battlefront. On the personal maps of the Russian soldiers, this city was heavily underscored, we afterward learned from Russian prisoners who surrendered en masse until the tide of the war turned. We must remember this was in 1914 and 1915, before America had entered the war. At all times were we prepared for any emergency and our trunks were always packed ready to be sent to Vienna at a moment's notice from one of the railway officials who promised to notify us upon the slightest disturbance or alarm of invasion by the troops.

In Germany we tourists could not but feel that a slight degree of envy was manifested for the Americans, but in Austria-Hungary sentiment towards America was one of deep respect and admiration even when rumors of American antagonism were current. These could not help but admire the independent and self-certain carriage of our people, they said.

During our stay in Hungary we traveled and saw much of the country and its people. Our journey took us to the Tyrolian Alps—the Carpathian Mountains, Budapest, Pressburg, Vienna, Salzburg, the birthplace of Mozart, the prodigy of the piano-forte, and we visited countless other interesting points. It seemed that the nation was subdivided for a different class of population existed in the various sections, German, Magyar, Slavish, French, Italian, and even Russian being spoken in the border states, but the old aristocracy is of the native Magyar and Austrian, as of the Andrassy and Windisgratz ancestry who are descendant from the Hapsburg royal house which held sway until it succumbed in 1919 to the Czecho-Slavs who have over-run most of Hungary and separated Austria from the former monarchy.

During our prolonged visit in Europe we nursed the wounded in the St. Elizabeth base hospital in Miskolc, rolled thousands of cigarettes which were sent weekly to the soldiers in the trenches, made a round of visits every Thursday at the hospitals in Miskolc distributing home-made dainties, cigarettes, wine, and whatever necessities such as writing paper, stamps, handkerchiefs, reading matter and so on, that the sick soldiers had requested. Among them were many who spoke English limitedly, and they were eager to practice their knowledge of our language. To them the English seemed more an accomplished tongue than either French or German.

After having our passports signed by the consuls-general of Austria Hungary, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, and Holland, we started on our return trip. At Mendheim on the border line between Germany and Holland our trunks were "gone through" by the customs officers or Zoll Revision, as it was called there. Everything was thoroughly searched and no printed matter was permitted to leave the country. A woman customs inspector examined the heels of our shoes, every stitch of clothing, our hair was loosened, undoubtedly to reveal any concealed information, even the bag of sweets which we carried was taken away for further inspection. There were many that day waiting to cross the border and so by the time our inspection was over we had barely time to make the last train at 11 o'clock that evening. Our purses were sealed by plasters and no personal effects could be opened until the Holland side had been reached.

We boarded the train and in about forty-five minutes we arrived across the boundary. My sister, Irene, had induced a porter to remove a trunk and had left me in charge of the valises and other luggage. Just as the porter was about to return for these the train without so much as giving a warning whistle to the passengers dashed forward. I learned that I was on a "Sonderzug" or special military train which would make no further stops until a certain military depot was reached. It was already midnight and there was I without a cent of money, rather without a pfennig, unacquainted with the language of the country, without passport or any papers of identification. I rode on through half the night towards the interior of Germany.

At about four o'clock, near dawn, we made our first stop. I leaped to the ground and was met by two guards shouldering arms and a mob of curious Germans. I was already overcome with fright but this was unbearable. Just then the station master who spoke a bit of English explained to me that the officials had telegraphed from the depot where Irene was detained. The earliest train to return there was at eight o'clock the next morning. I was locked in the waiting room of the depot and there on a chair with my almost shattered nerves fell asleep, but was awakened at intervals by the footsteps of the two armed guards tramping back and forth in front of the door.

After that nothing could hold me in Germany and when Irene and I were once more together we were both quite ready without any urging, to leave Germany behind us. And so we made our way into Holland.

We embarked on the Noordam at Rotterdam, Netherlands. The voyage homeward was uneventful but for the change of our steamer course at various times because of the nearing of submarines, one whole day being spent approximately six miles off the English coast during an under-sea raid. A submarine was sighted by passengers on deck and fortunately for us the steamer was of Dutch ownership although two days before several German men above the military age and women were transferred from our vessel.

We landed in New York harbor, September 1, 1915, with exactly $4.06 between us but happier than ever at sight of the Goddess of Liberty. We had started on our voyage supplied with funds which we thought would be more than sufficient but after visiting the consulates of so many countries and being charged exorbitant fees for the privilege of having our passes signed we were left almost without money.

Once more in the U. S. A., what else mattered? We had had enough after witnessing, for fourteen months, unspeakable human wretchedness wrought by the war.

THE WAR CHEST

The following letter shows the result of our efforts in connection with the War Chest Drive:

Uniontown, Pa.,
March 17, 1919.

Hon. J. Q. Van Swearingen,
President Fayette County War Chest.

My dear Judge:

I submit herewith my report as campaign manager of the Fayette County War Chest.

While the drive proper began December 2 and ended December 16, yet more than a month was spent in active preparation for the work before the drive and about the same time was required after its close to complete our labors. We set our goal at $600,000, which we thought, and which we now find, to be sufficient to meet all the requirements of the various charities represented by the War Chest movement, and I am glad to report that we have accomplished our undertaking.

You will recall that when the H. C. Frick Coke Company made its very generous gift of $100,000, it was stated that this was its contribution to the seven causes embraced in the United War Work alone and did not include the Red Cross, and that in the event of another drive for the Red Cross an additional contribution would be made; and while no specific sum was named, yet from our interview with the officials of the company, we gathered that it would probably be equal to the amount given to the United War Work. But, if it should be only half that sum, or $50,000, it will make our total subscriptions $614,630.51. Of course, if there should be no further drive for the Red Cross, our requirements will be proportionately reduced.

Following are the amounts subscribed in the various districts of the county, together with a list of the chairmen:

I can scarcely express my appreciation of the magnificent work done by the district chairmen, and I do hope their names will be printed with this report in all the newspapers of Fayette County, so that the people may know who made our efforts effective. And what I here say applies with equal force to the solicitors and workers, who, without regard to their own comfort, convenience, and personal interests, canvassed the county so faithfully.

I need not recall the obstacles that confronted us. The prevalence of the influenza, the fact that the war was over, that the people had already given most liberally to all the other war measures, the near approach of the holidays, the bad weather—these were but a few of the difficulties met and overcome.

Our greatest problem was to arouse the interest of the people, and, by reason of the influenza, we were obliged to abandon the series of public meetings that had been arranged, and the only method remaining was through the Publicity Bureau. That bureau, wisely and earnestly directed by its chairman, Mr. W. Russell Carr, and most liberally aided by the press of the county, did its work in so masterly a manner as to make possible the results obtained.

The response from the corporations and their employees was most generous and we were particularly fortunate in having at the head of that committee, as its chairman, Mr. L. W. Fogg, ably assisted by Mr. M. M. Cochran, whose efforts were untiring.

Messrs. John Lynch, as chairman of the advisory committee, E. T. Norton, H. A. Cottom and W. L. Graham as vice-presidents, Harry W. Altman as secretary, Samuel E. Taylor as treasurer, R. M. Fry as chairman of the executive committee, and Judge Umbel as chairman of the budget committee gave freely of time and effort. The members of the bar and the ministers greatly aided the publicity bureau, and the people were everywhere generous in their response, certifying again to their patriotism, their loyalty, and their generosity.

And may I not express an appreciation of your own service. Giving, as you did, three months of your time and visiting practically every district in the county, your earnest coöperation made possible the accomplishment of our purpose, which, I assure you, is appreciated not only by the organization but by the people of Fayette County.

Respectfully yours,

D. W. McDonald,
Campaign Manager.

THE WOMEN AND THE LIBERTY LOAN

BUSILY engaged were the Women of Fayette County in war work of every kind and as busy as the busiest were the women who worked on the various Liberty Loan committees under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Hagan, the county chairman. During the VICTORY LOAN their work reached its Zenith when they secured 5,034 subscriptions in the county totaling $3,026,800.

The following is an extract from the letter of Mrs. Hagan to Mrs. J. O. Miller, the state chairman:

"This marvelous success was achieved by the spirited coöperation of the borough and township chairmen and their splendid organization, and the county chairman wishes to express her deep gratitude and extend her heartiest congratulations to every borough and township chairman and through her to all her organization members.

"The work of the Woman Victory Loan Committee of Fayette County cost the Federal Government about $150.

"The sum raised in the fifth loan exceeded that of the fourth loan by $1,755,700 which shows that the women's committee had learned by previous experience and that their work was becoming more valuable to the country with each succeeding loan."

COMPANY D

By

JOHN LOWRIE ROBINSON, First Lieutenant

THE largest single contingent furnished by Fayette County to any one organization in the World War left home as members of Company D of the One Hundred Tenth Infantry—the reorganized army title for the Old Fighting Tenth of glorious Spanish and Philippine war tradition. We left as a National Guard unit, three officers and 150 enlisted men. We have come home as more-or-less veterans of many bloody campaigns. More than half the roster of the company was made up of men from Uniontown and near-by towns.

Company D was mobilized on July 15, 1917, at Connellsville, pursuant to the President's calling to the colors the state militia of the nation. September 8, 1917, we entrained in a driving rainstorm for Camp Hancock, Augusta, Georgia. We arrived there on September 10 and began the long grind of intensive training. In a short time the Pennsylvania National Guard was reorganized as the Twenty-eighth army division and given the new standard of company and regimental numbers. The Tenth and Third Regiments were merged into the One Hundred Tenth, under the command of Lieut. Col. Henry Coulter, and later, Col. George Kemp.

The training was thorough and severe but the D men pitched into the work with the will that afterwards made it unbreakable on the fronts in France. Here, too, the company suffered its first greatest loss—the death of Capt. Robert S. Morton of Connellsville. Failing health forced our captain's retirement and death followed a protracted illness in June, 1918, at the Summit hotel, Uniontown.

Month after month the regiment worked away at Hancock, memories of those days being with us yet. We remember the nights when icicles hung from our tent roofs (although the temperature once dropped to 5 degrees above zero and many nights were bitterly cold, we were always under canvass at Hancock) and we can recall the days in the broiling sun that came later. Along about April the rumor factory—never entirely dormant—began working over time. "We're leaving soon," went the story from lip to lip. And soon we did. On April 25, 1918, we entrained for the North—and France.

After a few days of strenuous activity at Camp Merritt, followed by a strict inspection of all equipment, the outfit boarded the British steamship City of Calcutta and on May 3 slipped quietly out of Hoboken. We were off at last on the Great Adventure. After a quiet and uneventful voyage of thirteen days, during which not even a submarine scare broke the monotony, we landed at Liverpool. We were rushed through England, across the Channel, and put foot on French soil at Calais. Here some of our equipment was changed to British and we commenced final intensive training back of the British lines. This took about a month.

The Boche were now engaged in their famous 1918 offensive and had driven a wedge south and east of us towards Paris. Accordingly the Twenty-eighth Division, nearly seasoned for battle, was shifted down to the danger point. We were now a portion of Marshal Foch's strategic "army of maneuver" which was composed more and more each week of American divisions. After several more changes of base we found ourselves about the first of July a little south of the Marne and in position for actual engagement for the first time.

Our general staff knew the Hun propensity for starting things on special days and rather expected a new drive on July fourth, our American national holiday. So instead of a regular Fourth of July celebration we were roused at 2 A. M. and hurried to an outlined position about 10 kilometers distant. Here we could see across the Marne, our first view of German-occupied territory. Nothing happened, however, and at the end of the day we hiked back to our billets rather disappointed and bitterly disgusted. But this inaction was not to last long.

A week later we were again moved up into this same advanced position in the second line with two companies, B and C, stationed in the first line with the French "for further training in a quiet sector," so the order ran. But somebody guessed wrong on the quiet sector. July 14, Bastile Day, the French national holiday, was the beginning of our first battle. That night our company, in support, received its first shelling. This was very light and we suffered no casualties, but it forced us to shift our position by moving forward a couple of miles. Here we learned that the fifth and last German offensive had started. Also that we were directly at one of its points; that our first line had broken, but that our own second line had held, with considerable loss.

When the Allied counter-attack began on July 18 we were shifted over back of Chateau-Thierry in support of our Fifty-sixth Infantry brigade. In another couple of days we were moved north and east, relieving French troops in the front line on the Ourcq near the town of Cierges. The Rainbow Division was on our left and the Thirty-second (Ohio) Division on our right. Here Company D received its first casualties. On July 29 in the village of Fresnes Edward V. McLaughlin was killed and several other men were wounded by shell fire. In the attack the following day the company suffered considerable loss, but did well, clearing a difficult piece of woods, part of the Bois de Grimpettes.

The following night we were relieved and went back—as we believed—for a short rest. Our losses had been severe and the One Hundred Tenth averaged about 100 men to the company. The second night of our rest, August 1, near the town of Le Charmal, a German bombing airplane raid visited us with dire results. The regiment suffered seventy-five casualties, of the killed twelve being D men. After a day to recover from this shaking-up we were moved forward again, crossing the Ourcq and marching on towards the Vesle, where our Fifty-sixth Brigade relieved part of the Thirty-second Division at Fismes and took Fismette across the river. This we were unable to hold, pinched in by withdrawal of outposts on both flanks.

A week later, about August 10, the One Hundred Tenth relieved a French regiment on the Vesle in and around the town of Villette. For three weeks we held here in fox holes and rifle pits, relieving the monotony by raids, dodging shell fire, and digging trenches, the different battalions taking turns in the front line. On September 2 our regiment was relieved by the One Hundred Ninth of our division and we went back anticipating a good rest. But alas, fond hopes. On September 4 we were roused at 2 A. M., crossed the Vesle in the afternoon, and attacked. For five days we pushed on after the Boche, reaching almost to the river Aisne. Then we were relieved with only 240 rifles in the regiment and D Company reduced to thirty-three men. All our commissioned officers and our first sergeant had become casualties, leaving Sergeant Smith Fuller in command of the company for two days.

September 9 we were relieved and were moved in trucks to Bussy la Cote for rest and replacements. The division had been under shell fire for sixty-seven days. The One Hundred Tenth had received replacements three times and with these additions was depleted as above stated. This time the rest was of ten days' duration and would have been more enjoyed but for the weather, which was bad. Rain fell during the entire time and continued almost daily through the rest of the fall and winter.

Back we went into the line, three night marches taking the division to Neuvilly where it relieved the French on the Oise. On the morning of September 26 we "jumped off" in rain and fog into the Argonne drive. Those who went through that drive have little to say. Our outfit was in there until October 10 and later moved into the Thiacourt sector opposite Metz in preparation for the drive on this city which started on November 10 and was terminated by the signing of the armistice. The month spent in the trenches there was one of continual raids on the Boche lest he become careless and attempt to rest.

After the armistice the Twenty-eighth Division was placed in the Army of Occupation until January 13, 1919. Relieved of this duty, it moved back into France to prepare to embark for home. Company D was located in the town of Crepey until March 18, then moved to Le Mans for a month, and finally reached St. Nazaire April 19. The company was assigned to the troop ship Edgar T. Luckenbach, sailed on April 29, and landed in Philadelphia on May 11. The division went to Camp Dix, New Jersey, for demobilization, returning to Philadelphia May 15 for a final parade and review. The men were officially discharged from service May 23, 1919, twenty-two months from the time of muster at Connellsville and with one year's overseas service.

The Twenty-eighth Division was engaged in the Champagne-Marne defensive; the Aisne-Marne offensive; the Fismes sector; the Oise-Aisne offensive; the Meuse-Argonne offensive, and the Thiacourt sector. Its total casualties were 15,433, ranking first among all national guard divisions and only exceeded in the entire American army by the First and Second Divisions of regulars. The division was six times mentioned by the commanding general of the Sixth French army of which it was a part, and once by General Mangin of the Tenth French army. It was first cited by General Pershing on August 28, 1918, and at divers times thereafter by its American corps and army commanders.

Of the 151 men who left home in 1917 with D Company, 108 went overseas with the company. Ten had been discharged and thirty-three transferred to other outfits before leaving Camp Hancock. Of these 108 men, seventeen were killed in action or died of wounds; one died of disease, and fifty-three were wounded—a total of seventy-one casualties not including those caused by illness. Less than twenty spent the whole time overseas on duty with the company. Fifty-five of the original members returned with the organization. From the time of its arrival in France until the signing of the armistice, ten commissioned officers were on duty with D Company. Of these two were killed, five were wounded, two were admitted to hospitals, and one was transferred.

UNIONTOWN'S Y. M. C. A. WORK

BESIDES contributing to active service six representative men as "Y" secretaries, the Uniontown Y. M. C. A. work during the war was productive of $73,469.05 in the drive for funds during the week of November 11, 1917, and $2,142.75 from the boys' work over a period ending April 1, 1918. In addition to which the domestic uses of the organization took a mighty upward bound with the financing and erection of the magnificent new "Y" building in the city, which on its completion this fall will represent an investment of $150,000.

As in everything else, all local Y. M. C. A. drives exceeded assigned quotas. The campaign for war work funds launched exactly two years before the date of the armistice was $35,000. Its result was a 100 per cent oversubscription. The boys' drive was to get 175 boys to earn and give $10 each. Its result was over 200 boys for a total of $2,142.75. The building fund drive, held just before the declaration of war and not connected with the war work, was for $100,000. Its total was approximately $135,000.

While the drive of November 11, 1917, was county-wide, the guiding spirits were all Uniontown men. Judge Robert E. Umbel was general chairman; Judge Edmund H. Reppert was vice-chairman and David M. UNIONTOWN CANTEEN

American Red Cross Society

By

Mrs. James Clark Work

WHEN preparation for the World War was at its height Uniontown came into its historic days once more. The thrill of the Revolutionary forces or musterings of Civil War days could not have caused so much excitement as when on May 10, 1918, the first army motor truck convoy arrived in town en route for overseas.

The great Liberty trucks—powers of strength and endurance in themselves—resembled the old Conestoga wagons with their khaki-covered tops. It was a beautiful and inspiring sight to see them wending their way over the old national highway toward the embarkation port at Camp Holabird near Baltimore. They traveled in trains of thirty trucks with from eighty to ninety men to a train and were preceded usually by an officer's car. They averaged about seventy miles a day.

With the coming of the truck train the Uniontown Red Cross Canteen became active. On April 24, 1918, Mrs. James Clark Work had been appointed captain of the canteen service by Mrs. G. W. C. Drexel, chairman of the canteen bureau of the Pennsylvania-Delaware division of the Red Cross. Soon thereafter Mrs. Work named her assistants, as follows:

First Lieutenant, Mrs. W. W. Parshall; Second Lieutenant, Mrs. J. B. Adams; treasurer, Mrs. Reginald Palmer, later succeeded by Miss Ann Dawson; Mrs. Russell Beall, Mrs. Lida Gilmore Bliss, Mrs. Theodore B. Bliss, Mrs. William Evans Crow, Mrs. Peter E. Sheppard, Mrs. William McClelland, Mrs. Arthur E. Crow, and Mrs. John Gilmore. Reserve helpers were Mrs. John Lynch, Miss Lida Searight, Miss Mary Ellen Rush, Miss Josephine Roddy, Mrs. Frank Crow, Mrs. Charles Chick, with special men helpers, J. B. Adams and E. S. Hackney.

The first truck train arrived May 10 at noon. No warning had been given of its arrival and only hasty and impromptu entertainment could be given. A lunch was served to the men and the I. N. Hagan company donated freezers of ice cream. This train was in command of Captain Walker of the 105th Supply Train, from Camp Sevier, North Carolina.

The same day at five o'clock in the afternoon, the second convoy reached town, parking in West Fayette Street for the night. At the invitation of the captain of the canteen the eighty men were marched to the Parish House for a hot dinner hastily prepared by the ladies. The home-cooked food, white linen, silver and other appointments of this meal proved a rare treat for the men and their thanks were expressed by Captain Boylan of the 105th Company, Quartermasters Corps, as follows: "The officers and men of my company are unable to express their gratitude for this kindness of the people of Uniontown." Free admission to the Penn Theater was that evening accorded by Manager C. M. McCloskey. This first entertainment program was hastily arranged but was thoroughly appreciated.

From that time on the army truck trains moved almost daily toward the sea over the old National Pike until January 25, 1919, when the last fleet of cars went through. West Main Street became a regular stopping place for supplies of oil and gasoline, a halt of two hours being usually made there. Judge J. C. Work's lawn on these occasions was used by the tired, dusty men for a resting place. Here the boys were always served a lunch, no matter at what hour they arrived.

Few of them came from hilly or mountainous country and their invariable question was "Are there any more hills to climb?" In reality they were just approaching the Allegheny chain and nothing but mountains lay before them till on the Atlantic seaboard. If the stop was a short one and a regular meal could not be served, there was always a plentiful supply of sandwiches, ice cream, cakes, and coffee, with cigars and cigarettes. A table with writing material, pens, and ink, was at hand and Judge Work's lawn soon became known as "The Welcome Mile Stone."

The first artillery unit with ammunition trucks arrived in town June 27, 1918, with 140 men and 20 officers from Camp Pike, Arkansas, in command of Lieutenant Colonel Merry. They encamped for the night at the Summit hotel six miles east of Uniontown and enjoyed to the utmost a special informal dance in their honor.

The first convoy to camp over night at Braddock Park was the 309th Supply Train in command of Major Paul Stutzman and Captain Smith from Camp Dodge, Iowa. At the suggestion of the canteen, this spot—where General Braddock of French and Indian war days lies buried—became the permanent night control for all truck trains.

On September 12, 1918, a convoy reached town commanded by Major Short and Captain Goldsboro from Camp Taylor, Kentucky. They arrived in a drenching rain. As winter quarters had not yet been arranged by the War Department, they spent the chilly night in West Main Street without proceeding further. Supper was served through the use of the kitchens of Mrs. Work and Mrs. Adams, and again a good, hot breakfast was given the boys before they left at 5 o'clock.

During this darkest hour before dawn, with rain, fog, and chill to add to the discomfort, the boys lined up with mess kits in hands, their faces smiling being glimpsed through the dim, flickering candle light. The scene made one reflect that not all the hardships were being borne in France. Not one word of complaint was uttered, every man justifying his uniform as an American soldier.

From now on the units were mostly from western and southern camps—Camp Dodge, Iowa; Camp Grant, Illinois; Camp Pike, Arkansas; Camp Shelby, Mississippi; Camp Taylor, Kentucky; Camp Johnston, Florida; Camp Sevier, North Carolina, and from other camps in New Mexico and California. The hills of Pennsylvania were quite dangerous for the drivers and many serious accidents occurred, especially on the hill west of Wheeling where several boys were killed.

In November through the kindness of the city, winter quarters were provided in Municipal Hall. The third floor was fitted up with cots, and shower baths were installed in the basement. The Uniontown Fire Department, through Chief George W. Litman and his associates, worked untiringly for the comfort of the army men. The generosity of the Third Presbyterian Church turned the church dining-room into a delightful mess hall. Here the canteen found every convenience for properly attending to the material wants of the visitors.

The hardships and exposure of the continuous driving caused considerable sickness, and during the influenza epidemic this was aggravated. At such times the Uniontown hospital was open to the men and the best of medical and nursing care given them.

On November 8, 1918, a truck train reached town just as the first reported news of the signing of the armistice became public through the News Standard. Copies of this paper were instantly sent by its management to the captain of the canteen and by her distributed to the men of the truck train. Though premature, and later substantiated fully by the official announcement on the eleventh, the news seemed a disappointment to the men. Their goal had not been reached and each one hated to quit before arriving in France to "do his bit." That night a Victory dance was held at the Country Club for the seventy-eight officers and men, Bower's orchestra gladly contributing the music.

On Thanksgiving Day the 10th Supply Train from Camp Funston, Kansas, Captain Kimball in command, made its third stop in Uniontown, making three trips over the pike. Donations of turkeys and other delicacies were received by the canteen and the biggest and best possible dinner was given the men, 120 in all. A similar dinner was served Christmas Day and on New Year's.

By this time real winter had set in and on January 25, 1919, the truck trips were officially discontinued. The fleets of cars were not always empty, being often laden with parts, supplies, and grain for shipment to all parts of the world. It was learned that the Uniontown canteen was the only active body between Lafayette, Indiana, and Baltimore, Maryland. This made the work of the local unit stand out vividly in the memories of every man who passed this way. Letters attesting to the appreciation of the work are many. One is as follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Work:

"Information has reached this office of the courtesies and kindness shown the officers and men of truck companies sent out by this office, and I take this opportunity to assure you that your interest and efforts are appreciated. Lieutenant Shields informs me that you mentioned a camp site before reaching town. It is the desire of this office that companies camp outside of towns rather than in towns and if you could develop a camp site of this kind with suitable accommodations you would be doing the service a great favor.

"Very truly yours,

D. M. FERRY,
Major, O. M. R. S.

Another letter greatly appreciated by the canteen was from American Red Cross headquarters:

Philadelphia, December 16, 1918.

"My Dear Mrs. Work:

"Mrs. G. W. C. Drexel, director of the canteen service, has called my attention to the efficient service rendered by you and your local workers to the motor truck trains going through your territory. The difficulties under which this service has been rendered have made it all the more appreciated by the recipients. We have had many letters of appreciation from the officers in command and you have the satisfaction of knowing that you have performed in the best way possible a difficult task. It is really a fine piece of work and is very greately appreciated.

"Very sincerely yours,
"CHARLES SCOTT, JR."

Another from Mrs. G. W. C. Drexel of Philadelphia is treasured:

"My Dear Mrs. Work:

"Congratulations on your hospitality of Thanksgiving and New Year's Day. I am sure that the added holiday food and comfort to the men, in Captain Kimball's words, 'were thoroughly appreciated by all.' I think the cheering of the men who must be on duty on holidays is an opportunity the Red Cross should never miss.

"Very sincerely,
"MARY DREXEL."

The total number of men entertained by the canteen was 7,413. Approximately 3,500 trucks passed through Uniontown, every one of which received something from the canteen. The total amount of money expended during the entire period of service was $852. Voluntary subscriptions from friends of the canteen service were received, ranging in amounts from $1 to $200. Cash donations were made by Messrs. Frank Dey, N. Jaquette, Charles E. Lenhart, A. Plumer Austin, R. W. Austin, Carl Areford, J. H. Lynn, Russell Beall, J. I. Feather, M. H. Bowman, J. B. Adams, Judge J. C. Work, John Farrell, Harry Whyel, E. S. Hackney, William Baum, and the Wright-Metzler Company.

The canteen's acknowledgment is hereby made for courtesies and supplies to Wilson & Company, I. N. Hagan's Sons, Miss Louise Burnham (who made and donated ninety-five dozen small cakes and rolls), Miss Mame Walker, Mrs. Emma Bulger, Mrs. Everhart Bierer, Mrs. James Henderson, Mrs. Henry Eastman, Miss Alice Skiles, Mrs. B. B. Howell, Mrs. E. S. Hackney, Mrs. John M. Core, and others.

OUR DRAFT BOARD

THE Local Board, with Sheriff Thos. L. Howard as its chairman, appointed Drs. A. E. Crow, C. H. LaClair, and S. H. Baum to assist Dr. O. R. Altman in the physical examinations. The office of the Local Board was located at the sheriff's office, in the Fayette County Court House, and although very much crowded, the work of the Local Board was carried on in this office until the registration of September 12, 1918, when an additional office was rented opposite the Court House for the work room of the clerks. The rental of this additional office was the only expense this Local Board had for its headquarters.

The physical examinations were held in one of the court rooms at the Court House and usually on Sundays, although at the beginning of the first draft it was necessary to hold examinations every day until a sufficient number of registrants had been examined to fill the first call. On the day of examination volunteer clerks were present to clerk for each examining physician, and other clerks to aid the registrants to fill their statements. All the examining physicians gave freely of their time and did not make any charge for their services.

Registrants Under Jurisdiction of Local Board:

June 5, 1917 Registration	3,263
June 5, 1918 Registration	271
August 24, 1918 Registration	57
September 12, 1918 Registration	4,805
Total Aliens of All Registrations	2,124

Upon a call from the Department for a quota of men to be sent to camp, notices were mailed to the physically qualified, according to their order numbers to report at Local Board Headquarters a few hours before train time, when the men were sworn in and given instructions regarding the trip to camp. Leader and assistant leaders were appointed and the men assigned to troops and then excused until a short time before the train was scheduled to leave. They then returned to Headquarters and marched to the train. The members of the Local Board, veterans of other wars, and bands accompanied the men to the station. On account of the large number of people who gathered at the station to see the men leave, it was necessary for the police to assist the Local Board in getting the men on the train and the squad of the Pennsylvania State Police located at Uniontown, assisted in the entrainment of the men.

Questionnaires of the first edition were mailed to all registrants of the first registration of June 5, 1917; of the second edition to the registrants of June 5 and August 24, 1918; and the third edition to the registrants of September 12, 1918, between the ages of eighteen and thirty-six, inclusive. Five per cent of the total number were mailed each day, making about one hundred and fifty mailed each day.

Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen, D. W. McDonald, Esq., and Thomas H. Hudson, Esq., were appointed members of the Legal Advisory Board, and they appointed a number of other attorneys to assist them in the filling out of the questionnaires, and we wish to state that the work of the Legal Advisory Board was very valuable and helpful to the Local Board. The Legal Advisory Board met with the Local Board and discussed the filling out of the questionnaires and arranged for the assisting of the registrants, so that they were enabled to have their questionnaires returned to the office of the Local Board within the time allowed by the Department.

Linn V. Phillips, Esq., was appointed Government Appeal Agent for the Local Board and gave unsparingly of his time to the work of investigating claims and aided the Local Board in every way possible.

The Local Board considered the classification of the registrants, under the questionnaire, the most important of their many duties prescribed by the Selective Service Regulations, for unless each registrant received a fair and impartial classification, the working out of the Draft Regulations would fail. With the returning of the questionnaires the members of the Local Board went over each one very carefully before classifying. When classified a notice was mailed at once to each registrant, and if not appealed within the time prescribed by the regulation a final classification card was mailed.

Quite a number of registrants were released to enlist in the Navy and Marines. A Naval Recruiting Station was located in Uniontown and a good many of the men enlisted. Only a very few releases were issued for the Emergency Fleet.

More than 200 registrants were reported to the Adjutant-General as delinquents, but many were located and found to be non-wilful delinquents. These men were reclassified and given the proper classification. The actual number of delinquents finally reported to the Department was seventy-three.

Immediately after the regulation for the registering of all men between the ages of eighteen and forty-five was issued, the members of the Board made the necessary arrangements by appointing boards of registration for each voting precinct and also appointed other boards of registration for the different coal and coke companies. By this method the men employed at the plants could register at the places where they worked and not have to be away from their work for even a part of the day. This arrangement was made at the suggestion of the Fuel Administration and the purpose was to enable the plants to keep up the outputs of their plants to the maximum for registration day. Volunteer clerks were secured from the public schools in the district to assist the registrars in making out the registration cards. We hoped to be able to make all of the duplicate registration cards on the registration day, but were unable o do so on account of an insufficient number of cards being received. When the cards were received the teachers of the public schools made out the cards for the Board. We were thus able to have all the duplicate cards ready when the order numbers were received.

Owing to the epidemic of Spanish influenza which was very bad in the mining district under the jurisdiction of the Board, a great deal of extra work was added to the members of the Board. The Department of Health refused permission for the calling of the men together for examination except in very small numbers. This made the Board as well as the physicians hold more meetings for the examinations. However, the Board was able to fill its quota under each call.

Only a small number of registrants were rejected at camp on account of their physical conditions, although quite a number of men sent to camp under the first draft calls were discharged on account of being aliens.

One thousand and nineteen men were inducted and sent to camp by the Board in the early draft. They were sent to Camp Lee, Virginia. Later some were sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio; Camp Greenleaf, Georgia; Camp Custer, Michigan; and a small number to various other camps.

The Red Cross Society and other societies in Uniontown furnished the draftees with knitted sets and comfort kits and in the early drafts the ladies gave each draftee a lunch to eat on the way to camp.

We feel that any mention of the history of the Local Board which did not mention the valuable help that the volunteer clerks and other individuals gave the Board would not be right.

Public school teachers of Uniontown, North Union, and South Union Townships, through their superintendents notified the Board that when they could be of any assistance all that was necessary was to let them know. Many times they were called upon to aid the clerks of the Board in sending out the questionnaires and in making up the industrial cards. In fact they saved the Board a considerable expense in the able and efficient manner in which they assisted with the work to be done.

Also we wish to mention the names of some of the clerks who assisted with the work when the physical examinations were held. Charles M. Fee, Court Crier of Fayette County Courts, was present at all physical examinations and called the registrants before the Board in their order numbers; James Whaley, Clarke Chisolm, James Phelan, C. D. Harader, Ira Coldren, W. P. Harader, L. G. Howard, Littleton Dawson, Jos. J. Michael, and Roy Altfather assisted the physicians with the filling out of the examination blanks.

Cox, Miss Martha Grier, Miss Alice Jackson, Miss Elsie Goldstein, Miss Margaret McGivern, Miss Anne Connell, Miss Blanche Shrum, Miss Nell Sweeney, Miss Helen Whaley, Miss Cherrir Brashear, Miss Jonnason, Miss Josephine Beckett, Miss Katherine Reagan, and Miss Pauline Litman.

A PRISONER OF THE HUNS

DR. ROBERT HARRISON JEFFREY

Lieutenant, Medical Corps

DR. ROBERT H. JEFFREY was one of the first Uniontown physicians to offer his services to the nation when war was declared. He was the only man from this community who was captured by the Huns and served a term in a German prison camp.

Dr. Jeffrey enlisted in the Medical Corps in June of 1917, was commissioned first lieutenant on July 10 and reported July 23 at the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C. He sailed August 18 on the Aurania, landing at Liverpool on September 2. He reached France on September 6 and was assigned to the Second Royal Irish Regiment of the Sixteenth Division of the British Army, serving with this command until his capture.

In the fall of 1917 Lieutenant Jeffrey witnessed the great British tank offensive around Cambrai and spent the winter behind the line in Flanders. In March his division was stationed at Lempire, France, the very point selected by Ludendorff for the break-through on the first great offensive of 1918. On the first day of that drive, March 21, 1918, Dr. Jeffrey was captured by the Huns while attending to the British wounded just a few rods back of the front line trenches.

He spent the next eight months as a prisoner, most of the time at Villingen, being released on November 26 and sent across the Swiss border three days later. Subsequently he reached Paris, then England, and finally sailed for home, arriving safe and sound in February, 1919.

Dr. Jeffrey has many interesting things to tell about his experiences as a prisoner of the Huns, not the least of which is the one in which he assisted the escape of two fellow officers by short-circuiting the electric lighting system of the entire camp. He will never forget the brutality and cruelty of the Huns, he says, if he lives a thousand years.

HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN UNIONTOWN AND VICINITY

THE first steps toward the organization of a chapter of the American Red Cross in Fayette County were taken on February 12, 1917, at Uniontown on which date a small group of patriotic men and women, inspired by the likelihood of United States entering the world war, met at the Parish House and decided to undertake the organization of a chapter. On February 23, a formal petition signed by the Hon. Edmund H. Reppert, Miss Katherine Howell, Dr. O. R. Altman, Mrs. James Clark Work, Mr. John Lynch, and Mr. John M. Core was made to the National Organization of the American Red Cross for the authorization of a chapter in Uniontown. On March 12, 1917, a charter was granted and the following officers of the Uniontown Chapter of the American Red Cross were thereupon elected: Mrs. James Clark Work, Chairman; Mrs. William H. Christ, Vice-Chairman; Miss Gwendolyn Barnes, Secretary; and Miss Katherine W. Howell, Treasurer.

Following this organization the work of the chapter was begun by the formation of classes for instruction in elementary hygiene, home care of the sick, home dietetics, and the making of surgical dressings. As a result of the efforts of the membership committee many new members were added to the chapter rolls.

A large and enthusiastic rally was held in the Christian Church on April 22, 1917, at which time the work of the American Red Cross was clearly presented to the people of Uniontown by E. W. Corn, a representative of the National Organization. After this rally the membership grew very rapidly and by May, 1917, the rolls contained the names of 1275 members.

The resources of the chapter were largely increased by the publication of a booster edition of the Evening Genius and by the presentation of a play, The U. S. Princess.

During the early period of the Uniontown Chapter there were many public-spirited women whose untiring efforts and devotion played a most important part in the future success of the Red Cross in Fayette County. On May 21, 1917, at the request of the original officers of the chapter, a reorganization was affected by the election of Hon. Edmund H. Reppert, Chairman; Dr. O. R. Altman, Vice-chairman; R. M. Fry, Second Vice-chairman; Mrs. James Clark Work, Third Vice-chairman; W. Russell Carr, Secretary, and an executive Committee consisting of the following: John M. Core, G. Schell Harah, William Baum, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. W. W. Parshall, Mrs. B. B. Howell, and Mrs. James Clark Work.

Following this reorganization, on May 31, 1917, at a special meeting of the members of the chapter, by-laws were adopted providing for the organization of the Red Cross activities in this jurisdiction and enlarging the Executive Committee of the chapter to include the chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and treasurer.

The Executive Committee was then organized by the election of Dr. O. R. Altman as chairman and committees were appointed on Supplies, Civilian Relief, Extension and Coöperation, Publicity, Education, Membership, Finance, and Headquarters. Three additional Committees were appointed on comfort kits, knitting, and Christmas packets.

When the Uniontown Chapter was granted a charter it came under the jurisdiction of the Atlantic Division, but this division was so large and the work grew so rapidly that it was necessary to create a new division, known as the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division with headquarters at Philadelphia. Mr. Charles Scott, Jr., Vice-president of The Giant Portland Cement Company, was put in charge with the title of Division Manager and at the same time there was formulated throughout the United States a complete reorganization of the American Red Cross.

Our work and activities were brought under the supervision of various bureaus and there were eight of these bureaus known as the Bureaus of Development: Bureau of Publicity, The Woman's Bureau, Nurses' Bureau, The Bureau of Civilian Relief, The Bureau of Supplies, The Bureau of Accounting, and the Bureau of Junior Membership. These Bureaus were later changed and known as departments and new bureaus were created that worked directly under the department with which they were connected. Chapters as well as divisions followed rather closely this same line of organization.

The charter of the Uniontown Chapter did not specifically define its territory; the problem of overlapping jurisdiction not having confronted the National Red Cross when chapters were few and scattered, but when three additional chapters were authorized within the boundaries of Fayette County namely, the Connellsville Chapter, the Brownsville Chapter, and the Point Marion Chapter, the question of their respective territorial rights soon brought about some complications.

However, there were no serious conflicts as all of the four chapters worked faithfully toward the ultimate objects of the Red Cross of furnishing surgical dressings, garments, and supplies regardless of to whom the credit would go.

The Uniontown Chapter exercised jurisdiction over the city of Uniontown, the boroughs of Dawson, Fairchance, Smithfield, Masontown, Markleburg, and Farmington and the townships of North Union, South Union, Georges, Red Stone, German Menallen, Franklin, Wharton, Henry Clay, Perry, and part of Dunbar. Within these limits the chapter had organized branches at Dunlaps Creek, Fairchance, Smithfield, Masontown, Farmington, Markleburg, McClellandtown, and Dawson and an auxiliary at New Salem.

By January, 1918, the membership of the chapter had grown to 10,577. From the date of the entrance of United States into the war on April 6, 1917, the development of the Red Cross in its various activities was very rapid, particularly the Women's Bureau that had charge of the making of surgical dressings, hospital garments and knitted goods.

The making of these different supplies was put in charge of different department heads; Mrs. Frank R. Crow was put in charge of surgical dressings, Mrs. Mary B. Gilmore in charge of hospital garments, and Mrs. L. L. Graham in charge of the knitting.

The first workrooms of the Uniontown Chapter were provided by the D. M. Bierer Rifle Club in its rooms in the Strickler Building. Here the making of hospital garments was conducted until April, 1917, when the Laurel Club offered its larger quarters in the National Bank of Fayette County Building. Workroom production was carried on in these rooms until October of the same year, when Mr. A. Plummer Austin, President of the Fayette Title & Trust Company, recognizing the needs of even more commodious quarters presented the chapter with the use of an entire house at number 69 South Gallatin Avenue, Uniontown. This splendid gift made possible the centralization of Red Cross activities under one roof.

From the organization of workrooms production to the early part of 1918 the department of surgical dressings made and shipped over 50,000 separate articles. The department of hospital garments made and shipped nearly 3,000 separate garments and the department of knitting hundreds of sweaters, mufflers, wristlets, and socks. In addition a committee under the direction of Mrs. James Clark

Work prepared and shipped thirty-four comfort kits and in response to a call from Headquarters a Committee under the direction of Mrs. O. R. Altman prepared and shipped in 1917 633 Christmas packets for distribution among our soldiers in France.

After the development of the Uniontown Chapter into such an extensive organization and the rapid growth of the other chapters in the county, particularly those of Brownsville and Connellsville, it was felt that the Red Cross would be best served and could work with more efficiency if there was a consolidation of all existing chapters into one county chapter. The matter of a consolidation was taken up with the Executive Committees of the several chapters in the county and after several conferences a merger of the Uniontown Chapter, Connellsville Chapter, and Brownsville Chapter into a Fayette County Chapter was formally effected at a meeting of delegates representing the three chapters above named held in Brownsville in April, 1918.

The merger became effective May 1, 1918, on which date the three county chapters surrendered their charter and a new charter was granted by Division Headquarters at Philadelphia giving the Fayette County Chapter jurisdiction over all of Fayette County except the burroughs of Point Marion, Belle Vernon, and Everson, together with West Brownsville in Washington County.

Uniontown was selected as headquarters for the county chapter because of its central location and the official positions in the chapters personnel were divided among the three original chapters.

The first officers to be elected by the Fayette County Chapter were J. Fred Kurtz, Connellsville, Chairman; Dr. O. R. Altman, Uniontown, First Vice-chairman; H. A. Cottom, Brownsville, Second Vice-chairman; E. T. Norton, Connellsville, Treasurer; Rev. Cloyd Goodnight, Uniontown, Director of Bureau of Development; Rev. Albert Neilson Slayton, Director of Bureau of Civilian Relief; R. J. Arnett, Uniontown, Director of Bureau of Accounting; Mrs. Frank R. Crow, Uniontown, Director of Bureau of Nursing; F. W. Wright, Connellsville, Director of Bureau of Supplies; Prof. C. N. McCune, Uniontown, Director of Bureau of Junior Membership; W. Russell Carr, Uniontown, Secretary.

It was further decided by the new chapter that the governing body of the chapter consist of a Board of Directors composed of the officers, the directors of the various bureaus, and four members chosen at large. The four members of the Board chosen at large were G. S. Harah, Uniontown; F. E. Markell, Connellsville; Mrs. Minna P. Waggoner, Brownsville; and W. V. Winans, South Brownsville. The Board of Directors also had an Executive Committee chosen from the Board to assist them in carrying on the work of the chapter. About the time of the county merger several changes were made in the heads of the Women's Bureau at Uniontown, Mrs. O. R. Altman assuming charge of surgical dressings, Mrs. Annett Pierce of hospital and refugee garments, Mrs. L. L. Graham, remaining head of the Department of Knitting.

By the merger of the three county chapters the organization assumed much larger proportions and by June 1, 1918, the Fayette County Chapter consisted of sixty-five branches and auxiliaries. All of these Red Cross Units maintained work rooms and were making large quantities of surgical dressings, hospital supplies, refugee garments, and knitted goods.

The chapter maintained three shipping points, namely: Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville where all completed articles from the various branches and auxiliaries were assembled, and each week from these three points large shipping boxes of Red Cross supplies were forwarded to our Division Headquarters at Philadelphia. This work grew to such an extent that by November 1, 1918, it was found from records compiled that nearly 150,000 surgical dressings, 50,000 hospital and refugee garments, and over 12,000 knitted articles had been shipped by Red Cross workers in Fayette County. There were nearly 2,500 women in the jurisdiction of the Fayette County Chapter that were actually engaged in sewing and knitting and the making of surgical dressings and thousands of dollars worth of material and supplies were purchased and made up in the different workrooms throughout the county.

This part of Red Cross work soon overshadowed all others and the various classes organized in the early days of the chapter for the teaching of public nursing, home care of the sick, and home dietetics were discontinued because the women of the country were devoting all time possible to the making of Red Cross supplies.

Shortly after the county merger in May, 1918, it was found necessary to make rather extensive plans for the taking care of families and dependents of men in the service and assisting them in working out many of their problems that had grown out of the war.

In June, 1918, Miss Anne Evans, a trained relief worker, was employed as Executive Secretary of Civilian Relief and devoted her full time to the assistance of families and dependents of service men. Miss Evans served in this capacity until October, 1918, when she left to take up similar work at Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. George W. Buckner of Connellsville was put in charge of Civilian Relief November 1, 1918, and is still in charge.

In addition to an Executive Secretary of Civilian Relief it was necessary to have a number of assistants to make investigations and assist in this rapidly growing branch of Red Cross work. After the county merger the organization continued to grow until it contained seventy-five branches and auxiliaries, and the work had grown to such proportions and the problems to handle were so many that it was necessary to put someone in actual charge of the various activities, and in July, 1918, W. P. Schenck of Connellsville was employed by the Executive Committee in the capacity of Executive Secretary. Previous to the county merger Miss M. Leta Smith was employed as an assistant to Mr. W. Russell Carr, the Chapter Secretary, and she continued to serve as assistant to the new Executive Secretary, her chief duties having to do with workroom production.

Working toward a more perfect Red Cross organization the Executive Committee of the County at a meeting held August 14, 1918, divided the chapter territory into eleven territorial districts and placed a branch in charge of each of these districts. All other Red Cross Units in these districts were known as auxiliaries and worked under the direction and were responsible to the branch in their district. These branches were located at Connellsville, Markleysburg, Farmington, Dawson, Perryopolis, Brownsville, Dunlaps Creek, McClellandtown, Masontown, Smithfield, Fairchance, and the Uniontown district. Later a twelfth district was created and a branch at Fayette City.

The plan along which the Fayette County Chapter was working and the methods they were pursuing in carrying on all Red Cross activities conformed as nearly as possible to a perfect organization as outlined by National Headquarters. Making the auxiliaries responsible to their branches, and the branches in turn to the chapter, allowed the work to be carried on in an organized and systematic way and the chapter always had all of its units working at maximum speed.

Not only did the Red Cross in Fayette County make a wonderful showing in the production of Red Cross garments and supplies and the caring for the families and dependents of men in the service, but in all campaigns for membership, funds, collection of used clothing, etc., it more than reached its quota.

In the first Red Cross Drive for funds in June, 1917, the Uniontown Chapter was made an allotment of $35,000 and collected and paid into National Headquarters over $60,000, and in the second Red Cross War Fund Drive conducted in May, 1918, after the county merger, against a quota of $140,000 for the county chapter over $325,000 was pledged and collected.

In the first campaign for used clothing held September 3 to 30 the Fayette County Chapter against an allotment of seven tons collected and shipped over thirteen tons, and in the second campaign for used clothing held March 17 to 24, 1919, nearly 14,000 pounds were collected and shipped.

Chapter shipped 2,575 pounds and had several additional tons for shipment when the armistice was signed, and the chapter notified to discontinue the collection of this material.

During the influenza epidemic in the fall of 1918 the Fayette County Red Cross played a most important part in meeting the emergencies and helping to wipe out the epidemic. Twenty-two emergency hospitals were established throughout the county and the Red Cross was directly or indirectly connected with all of these, by either having complete supervision of the hospitals, or the furnishing of supplies and nurses where the hospital was under the supervision of some other organization or company. It proved in this instance the value of the Red Cross in time of peace and was the means of saving many lives within the jurisdiction of the Fayette County Chapter. Another matter that is worthy of mention is the fact that the Red Cross in Fayette County did not stop its workrooms production at the signing of the armistice, but the women continued to make hospital and refugee garments until May 1, 1919, nearly six months after the armistice was signed.

The National Red Cross formulated a plan of recognizing the faithful and continuous service of the men and women of the country, who served and toiled so faithfully and untiringly in behalf of this "Greatest Mother in the World," by issuing a certificate and service badge for all who devoted 800 hours' or more service, in a minimum length of time of six months, in Red Cross work.

There are nearly 300 men and women under the jurisdiction of the Fayette County Chapter entitled to this special mark of distinction which forcefully shows the untiring way in which the majority of our workers served.

Now that the war is over, peace signed, and our country assuming a normal state, the question has come before the Executive Committee of the Fayette County Chapter as to whether or not the work of the Red Cross should go on, and if there is still work to be done.

After a careful study of conditions in Fayette County and the possibility of future service for this Great Agency of Mercy it is felt that there are many peace activities that it should assume, and in a survey of the branches and auxiliaries of the Fayette County Chapter they also felt the need of a permanent Red Cross Organization. The result has been that a definite policy has been proposed and will no doubt be adopted providing for peace-time activities of the Red Cross.

This program includes the organization of classes throughout the county for the teaching of courses in elementary hygiene and home care of the sick, first aid (elementary and advanced), home dietetics, and community sanitation; the employment of one or more public health nurses to go into all communities throughout the county and teach better health and living conditions; enlarging on the Civilian Relief and Home Service Work to include all civilians throughout the county in need of help and assistance; maintaining data on the county nursing resources and other detailed information which would be of value in case of emergencies, such as the recent influenza epidemic; enlarging on Junior Red Cross work and formulating plans in connection with the county educators in teaching the children the necessity of healthful and sanitary living conditions; keeping the branches and auxiliaries organized for service in their communities; conducting campaigns, such as the recent drive for used clothing, and making the Red Cross in Fayette County a real agency of service, by assisting its people in every way possible in alleviating sickness, disease, and distress, and making them more contented and happy with their place of abode.

THE SALVATION ARMY WAR WORK

By

CAPTAIN ARTHUR WHEATLEY

IN considering the Salvation Army in all its forms it is quite safe to assume that the phase now most prominent in the public mind is the one now approaching its close in the final scenes of demobilization after the World War, namely, the work of the Salvation Army as connected with the men with the colors both in America and overseas. The success of this work, unexpected in its completeness, has been the cause of much surprise to both soldier and civilian from whom lavish praise indeed has been accorded.

It should not be forgotten that the work was not primarily a new field of endeavor to Salvationists and that the Army was perhaps the only relief organization in war work which could command trained and experienced workers from the outset. To help the helpless and feed the hungry has long been one of its prime objectives. The Army embarked on no new undertaking but confined itself simply to its old lines of gospel and food. In France it was more food than gospel. Soup and salvation went hand in hand to the trenches of Europe as they went first to the slums of London, to the cities of America, and to every far corner of the globe.

It was the sympathetic and harmonious relationship between our organization and the boys in the field and the families left at home that enabled us to push our work to whatever happy results were attained. That is the answer to the Salvation Army's success. Now, hearing nothing but praise on every hand, it is hard to recall, perhaps, that only a few short years ago praise for the Army was an exception rather than the rule. If any credit is due the Army it should go primarily to those who recognized its usefulness in the days of peace and upheld it in the dark days of neglect when none could tell whether its work would stand or fall.

The Army feels its first thanks are due to those who have loyally and sincerely supported it throughout the fifty years of its existence, giving unstintedly of their time and money even when the clouds were blackest. It desires to take this opportunity to publicly express its appreciation. It desires also to acknowledge the assistance of those who supported its war work directly. It is obvious that without the home source of supply, the supply in the trenches would have failed. The Salvation Army had no great amount of capital with which to conduct its work and endeavored to act as a link between home and soldier. If it succeeded, the success is due in equal measure to family and doughboy.

The Salvation Army has sought the favor of man in none of its dealings. Its efforts have been inspired solely by its fundamental desire to serve. It seeks only the favor of God, and securing that, feels assured that there will always be enough lovers of righteousness, enough true Christians, to see that it lacks not any good thing.

Paul Kerr of Jefferson Street, Uniontown, was the single local Army representative overseas. He went in the fall of 1918 before it was seen that the end of the war was at hand and returned home last spring. We did our bit in France and we hope to continue to serve at home.

THE FAYETTE COUNTY WOMAN'S COMMITTEE OF THE COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

By

MRS. ROBERT E. UMBEL, Chairman

THE Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense was organized throughout the county with an active chairman in nearly all the forty city, town, and township districts. There was great variety in the method of local organization but each chairman was responsible for the mobilization of women's clubs and church societies and the circulation of correct information regarding all war work through these channels.

The Woman's Committee of Brownsville, under the leadership of Mrs. W. V. Winans, did excellent work and deserves especial mention.

At the signing of the armistice Fayette County had just begun its War Chest Campaign. Appeal was made to all women's organizations through the local woman's committees by the county chairman to assist the men's organizations in every way possible. Many volunteer solicitors were secured in this way and a number of organizations made contributions. The Woman's Committee of Uniontown, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Snider, contributed $160, one-half of which was given by women's Jewish societies.

A letter was sent out from the Woman's County Headquarters each month to every chairman, letters of appeal and information were sent also to chairmen for coöperation and assistance in all "drives," as matters of special importance which were sent to county chairmen from the State Chairman, Mrs. J. Willis Martin. Special letters were sent for all directors of departments when assistance was needed.

All Government appeals were given publicity promptly and special propaganda was sent from time to time to the seven county newspapers.

Monthly meetings were started and a number of them held until the ban was placed upon such by the influenza scourge.

The Department of Registration was successfully conducted by Mrs. J. K. Ritenour securing over 2,500 names. These were filed by Mrs. J. Searight Marshall and placed in the Woman's Headquarters where they were frequently consulted.

The Department of Food Conservation was a very great success under the direction of Mrs. Chas. L. Davidson, who is the wife of the Federal Food Administrator. This work was thoroughly organized and covered the entire county. In some of the mountainous and most rural districts the food program was greatly assisted by the supervising principals of public schools. The food primer was placed in the public schools of the three largest cities: Uniontown, Connellsville, and Brownsville, through Mrs. Davidson's efforts, and a copy of the same placed with all the teachers of the schools outside of these cities.

Conservation lectures were given by local women. Demonstrations in canning and cooking were given all over the county by State College experts.

The federal food train was given a splendid reception in the three largest places visited in the county. The attendance in each town was between 600 and 800 persons. This attendance was due to the splendid coöperation of the Woman's Committee with the Food Departments. After this demonstration a number of students and teachers of domestic science gave talks on the uses of sugar and wheat substitutes to groups of women who were unable to attend the lectures.

The Department of Women in Industry, under Mrs. William Cook, was taken care of in this direction as applicable to local conditions.

Mrs. Wm. O. Schoonover, in the Department of Education and Americanization, enlisted speakers for various departments of war work and supplied many such for public meetings and before women's clubs. Mrs. Schoonover has herself made a number of addresses in the county on Americanization.

The Woman's Committee for Liberty Loan was organized by Mrs. Robert E. Umbel. Organization was begun in the second loan, and for the third loan a good county working force of women had been effected. In the second loan an extensive educational campaign was conducted by the Woman's Committee. No district was overlooked and bonds and their values and the Government needs were taught by local workers by every possible means of propaganda. The best results were obtained by suitable literature and the house to house visit.

Liberty Loan parades all over the county were a feature of the third loan. The women were mobilized by the Woman's Committee and every department of the Council of National Defense was represented and seemingly every woman engaged in any kind of war work was in the town parade.

Over a half million was secured by the Woman's Committee in the second loan, mostly small bonds. In the third loan the women secured over a million and a half and between 8,000 and 9,000 bonds.

In the fourth loan the plans of the Men's Committee did not permit of an organized effort in all parts of the county but the Woman's Committee assisted in many districts and the county was credited with $1,234,100 and 3,184 bonds by their work.

Among the most successful and best organized committees were those of Uniontown under Mrs. George E. Gay; Fairchance and Georges Township under Mrs. E. B. Fast and Mrs. J. J. Swaney; McClellandtown and German Township under Mrs. J. Holmes Sangston and Miss Lillian Rush; Fayette City and Washington Township under Mrs. Edward Hamer, Miss Ruth McCrory, and Mrs. Andrew Brown; Brownsville under Mrs. George Burnett; Dawson under Mrs. H. J. Bell; Vanderbilt under Mrs. J. B. Hazlett; Bullskin Township under Mrs. Austin Rhodes; Connellsville under Mrs. Raymond Mestrezat and Mrs. Carl Horner; Dunbar and Dunbar Township under Mrs. James Barrett; Menallen Township under Mrs. T. Baird Graham; Smithfield Borough under Mrs. Donald Abraham.

An intensive campaign for securing student nurses was done through the Woman's Committee. Mrs. Frank Crow, who was also in charge of the Department of Nurses of the Red Cross, was appointed to the Department of Nursing in the Woman's Committee. Mrs. Crow's knowledge of the work and its dire need was used most advantageously during the influenza epidemic. She organized emergency hospitals over the county. The Woman's Committee furnished many volunteer nurses and in some districts the women did hospital work with very little professional assistance.

The Department of Health and Recreation, under Miss Margaret Whiteman, Carnegie librarian at Connellsville, is being organized for after war work in accordance with Government work. Plans are made for a campaign on social hygiene in different parts of the county. Twelve lectures will be given in February.

Mrs. John B. Marietta of Connellsville, Director of Department No. 2, was active in stimulating food production in the county. Mrs. Melvin Grey of Connellsville was organizing the Department of Maintenance of Social Existing Agencies when it was abandoned. Mrs. Clark Hoon of Fairchance made investigations and valuable reports in the Department of Home and Foreign Relief.

The Woman's Committee Headquarters has been conducted as a service bureau for all war work. The correspondence has been taken care of by the county chairman.

The Business Woman's Association, various law offices, and the office of the Food Administrator have been very generous in their contributions of stenographic work which obviated the necessity of a stenographer at Headquarters.

The County Executive Committee contributed their share in the work. The vice-chairmen, Mrs. Charles Davidson of Connellsville, and Mrs. Samuel Taylor of Brownsville, were very helpful. Mrs. O. R. Brownfield, secretary, of Fairchance and Mrs. Theo. D. Bliss, treasurer, of Uniontown, did well the portions allotted to them.

The final meeting of the Woman's Committee was held in January. By unanimous consent the committee was discontinued as an organization but each woman present expressed a willingness to take up any welfare work possible in her district when the occasion demanded it. It was the consensus of opinion that a splendid coöperation for the entire war program had been secured by the Woman's Committee and a bond of friendship and knowledge of workers and county conditions hitherto unknown had been developed by this organization.

DUNBAR

DUNBAR'S part in the World War is one to be proud of as long as memories linger on the awful days of 1917 and 1918. Not as large, not as rich, and not as blessed as some of the bigger centers of population, she yields to none in true appreciation and fulfillment of patriotic duty. Her record stands without reproach.

The splendid Red Cross unit got into activity early in the war and was guided by competent leaders in Mrs. L. S. Kerchner, chairman; Mrs. C. E. Gaddis, treasurer; and Mrs. Lloyd V. Gongaware, secretary. A large enrollment was secured and meetings for work held regularly. Nearly 1,000 finished articles were turned in to county headquarters.

R. J. McGee was chairman of the Liberty Loan drives and under his direction substantial purchases of government securities never failed. The subscriptions were as follows: First, $34,500; Second, $21,900; Third, $41,000; Fourth, $69,000; Victory, $43,500—a total of $209,900. The First National Bank's "dollar-a-month" bond club aided materially in this showing. In the fourth loan 513 individuals subscribed, and 365 in the Victory Loan.

Mr. McGee was also chairman of the War Chest and the Four Minute Men. In the War Chest drive his workers raised a total of $4,611, mostly in small subscriptions. His principal four-minute speakers were Rev. P. J. Brennan, Rev. Harry L. Humbert, Rev. J. W. Wilson, Rev. J. W. Watters, G. W. Greenwood, and John McDuggan.

The War Savings Stamp drive also received splendid support by Dunbar citizens, a total estimated at $50,000 being bought in 1918.

MASONTOWN

MASONTOWN'S part in the World War was that of all loyal and patriotic communities of the nation. All calls were answered and both in man power and money the town stands on even terms or better with any other its size in the county.

Particularly active and valuable was the Masontown Red Cross unit, organized July 6, 1917. Officers for the work were F. E. Gebhart, chairman; Mrs. C. H. Harbison, vice-president; H. A. Johnson, secretary; and C. H. Harbison, treasurer. There were three branches, New Geneva, with Rev. J. H. McCormick, chairman; Miss Bessie Weller, secretary; and Jesse Dils, treasurer; Old Frame, with Mrs. A. C. Black, chairman; Miss Ella Rohrer, secretary; and Ray I. Dils, treasurer; and Ronco, with A. C. Mechling, chairman; Mrs. Charles McDermott, vice-chairman; Mrs. Ray Davis, secretary; and Mrs. A. Hague, treasurer. Workroom production from the organization to January 1, 1919, totaled over 4,000 articles—3,050 surgical dressings, 183 refugee garments, 708 hospital garments, and 384 knitted articles.

The Liberty Loan drives were in charge of W. L. Graham as chairman, with A. J. Fast, G. W. Honsaker, Joseph Kratz, Joseph Quinet, and Rev. Martin L. Shively as precinct captains. D. R. DePriest and A. N. Young were industrial captains. The solicitors included Paul D. Howard, Lewis Honsaker, W. T. Robinson, Aaron Bell, Thomas Boyle, J. W. Campbell, Edward McArdle, Ray Martin, William Shoaf, and Charles B. West. A total of $1,119,800 was subscribed in the five loans, apportioned as follows: First, $21,000; Second, $133,450; Third, $274,600; Fourth, $457,100; Victory, $233,650.

F. E. Gebhart was also at the head of the War Chest drive and the splendid subscription of $4,664.75 resulted from the campaign. W. L. Graham also supervised the Y. M. C. A. drive, where equally representative progress was made. In Rev. Father Francis Kolb and Rev. Martin Shively the Masontown community was blessed with forceful and earnest clergyman who added a spiritual power to the war work. The community's record is a great one.

PERRY TOWNSHIP

PERRY township's part in the World War was full and complete. Its war activities were as varied as the government demanded. Every call was answered.

First in point of foundation was the township Red Cross unit, commissioned April 19, 1917, with J. Buell Snyder first chairman. The permanent organization that came later found Bente Luce, chairman; Miss Lena Galley, secretary; Mrs. C. H. Cuppett, vice-chairman; and Mrs. J. Alva Byers, director of bureau. The Star Junction auxiliary was officered by Mrs. J. B. King, chairman, and Miss Frances Graham, secretary. The Extension Committee was composed of Jesse Blair, Jackson; J. A. Jones, Banning; John Krepps, Wick Haven; and Fred Edwards, Layton. More than 3,500 members were enrolled in the township and a total of 1,944 finished garments was turned in to the county chapter headquarters. In the second war drive Perry township led the entire county.

In the five government loan drives loyal citizens of Perry township bought exactly $900,000 worth of Liberty and Victory bonds, distributed as follows: First, $44,000; Second, $100,000; Third, $235,000; Fourth, $400,000; Victory, $121,000. Cashier Harry Adams of the First National Bank of Perryopolis was chairman and his organization's efficient work is reflected in the results.

The response to the War Chest campaign was unusually fine. Under the direction of Chairman Harry Slocum the magnificent sum of $22,125.37 was pledged, a showing comparing more than favorably with all other county districts.

In the War Savings Stamp drive Perry township led the county, through the plans of Bente Luce and Harry Slocum putting the whole school district on a savings bank system. In this way more than $30,000 worth of stamps was sold to and through the schools and today more than 60 per cent of the 1,700 school children of the township are owners of "baby bonds."

The splendid Public Safety work was carried on through a committee composed of J. Buell Snyder, chairman, Walter Risbeck, Norman Piersol, Frank Browneller, J. R. Martin, and Ira Blair. Forty meetings at various schoolhouses were held, attended by more than 10,000 persons. "Seven Minute Men" who served so faithfully were W. Lawrence Fife, J. Alvin Byers, M. W. Byers, Edward Francis, Bente Luce, H. H. Slocum, Rev. W. J. Law, Rev. C. G. Huffer, Rev. J. A. Forgie, Miss Mary Carson, Miss Kathryn Barr, Miss Helen Cole, Miss Hazel Weimer, and Miss Lena Galley. POINT MARION

AS might be expected, Point Marion's part in the World War was no small one. Belgium's heroic rôle of sacrifice as the initial battleground of the great conflict found its true counterpart in the services of those of Belgian birth or ancestry who form such a large portion of the Glass City's population. They vied with their American brothers in deeds on the fields of France and in unflinching support by work, frugality, and generosity at home. They "carried on."

The Red Cross chapter played an important part in the home work of Point Marion, just as it did throughout Fayette County and the nation. Organized early in the war, the loyal members rolled up a record of which any community might well be proud. In amount of finished articles of comfort and service to the men across the seas, the Point Marion workers stood among the first. The guiding hands of the chapter were A. D. Mayer, chairman; Mrs. P. J. Joyce, Mrs. Clark Warman, and Mrs. Rebecca Blosser.

The Liberty Loans were all actively and enthusiastically supported in Point Marion. Ernest E. Beardsley was chairman of the loan committee; Frank M. Gans was captain of the canvassing team, and his lieutenants included I. K. Conn, A. M. Phillips, A. D. Mayer, W. S. Dillinger, S. J. Porter, J. F. Devlin, J. M. Crawford, J. J. Quertinmont, F. A. Guyaux, J. P. Leslie, M. K. Ruse, and Frank Cupelli. Nearly $1,000,000 was subscribed in the five loans, the amounts being: First, $108,300; Second, $184,100; Third, $208,000; Fourth, $241,850; Victory, $252,500—Total, $994,750. Point Marion was one of the few communities that subscribed more to the Victory Loan than to the Fourth Liberty. Each loan went over bigger than those preceding; a wonderful record.

And in the War Chest drive an equally fine showing was made. Under the direction of E. S. Tyler the sum of $5,915.50 was subscribed for the united war work to "finish the job" so well undertaken by the 120 service men of the community. At home the Four Minute Men were unceasingly active, five speakers keeping up strength and spirit during the long struggle. These were Ernest Young, A. J. Gans, D. K. LaRue, Edward Gusfaux, and Rev. M. B. Cavanaugh. All in all, from April 7, 1917, to the present day, no community in Fayette County can have more deserved pride in its patriotism and loyalty than Point Marion.

Compiler's Note

THE compilers of this book present it to the public after earnest effort to make it all that the name signifies. That it is not entirely complete, that some details may be lacking, that a few mistakes may have unavoidably crept in, we regret sincerely.

Three months of preparation, included in which was an exhaustive house-to-house canvass of Uniontown and supplementary communities, were spent before publication. Whatever may be lacking comes not from want of honest endeavor on our part.

No attempt has been made to glorify one name at the expense of another. By design, all have been treated as nearly as possible in the same way, a fact that may possibly be appreciated more sincerely by the service men themselves than by any others.

We offer our book in the sincere belief that it serves a useful purpose. We trust that it will be received by our friends in the same spirit in which it was compiled.
